

DocPanel Welcomes Jaideep Sohi, MD as Chief Medical Officer

DocPanel, a global innovator in providing subspecialized radiology coverage through a network of the country's top fellowship-trained radiologists, has appointed Jaideep Sohi, MD as the new Chief Medical Officer (CMO). Dr. Sohi succeeds DocPanel Co-Founder Philip A. Templeton, MD, FACR, who has stepped into the role of Chief Innovation Officer after serving as CMO since the company's inception in 2016.

Dr. Sohi will lead initiatives to evaluate and enhance radiologist and client satisfaction, with an emphasis on creating company-wide structure that addresses factors contributing to the 49% physician burnout rate among radiologists. Dr. Sohi will also oversee clinical quality assurance, lead direction for radiologist recruitment, and drive expansion within molecular imaging.

"I am thrilled to entrust Dr. Sohi with the role of Chief Medical Officer. He shares DocPanel's passion to provide the best care possible for each patient, and his dedication to that fundamental goal fits perfectly with our mission to provide: high-level subspecialty interpretations, new service launch assistance, protocol optimization support, and research collaboration," says Dr. Templeton. "He plans to help empower each physician in DocPanel to reach their goals. In addition, as a highly recognized Nuclear Medicine expert, he will assist us in expanding our reach in molecular imaging and beyond. He is a thoughtful and compassionate family man, friend and colleague."

Dr. Sohi is a Johns Hopkins fellowship-trained nuclear medicine specialist, the President of American Molecular Imaging, and Assistant Professor of Nuclear Medicine at the California Northstate University School of Medicine. He brings with him over 15 years of experience in radiology and is currently the principal and sub-investigator in multiple clinical trials.

"It's an extreme honor to join such an exceptional group of human beings who are working so tirelessly to achieve our deeply shared goal of improving worldwide access to top-notch subspecialized radiology expertise. I'm both excited and humbled to come onboard and help maximize our potential by growing DocPanel into a platform with unlimited access," says Dr. Sohi.

Radiologists looking for a rejuvenating reading experience can expect new and exciting opportunities within DocPanel, while providers as well can enjoy full-spectrum radiology solutions that bring a breath of fresh air while solving the biggest pain points in today's imaging world.
