

Emerus Hires Peyton Elliot as Senior VP of Operations

Emerus is pleased to announce the hiring of Peyton Elliott as Senior Vice President of Operations. Reporting directly to COO Vanessa Smith, Elliott will lead operations for the company's Texas and West coast markets, as well as for its markets under development.

"We look forward to Peyton's leadership as he partners with our great Emerus team and health system partners to deliver high-quality, patient-centric care to our patients and the communities we serve," Smith said.

Elliott most recently served as CEO of HCA Houston Healthcare Medical Center. He previously worked at Houston Methodist, where he completed his administrative residency and held various executive roles. He began his career in health care administration at Trinity Mother Frances Hospital in Tyler.

He received a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in finance from Texas Christian University and holds a master's degree in health care administration from Trinity University. In his time away from Emerus he also enjoys real estate investing and time with his two young children.

Elliott is a member of the American College of Healthcare Executives, and he is an alumnus of the Leadership Development Council of the Texas Hospital Association.
